FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO STEAL HORSES

Robbers Working in This Section Make Two Futile Efforts Within Few Miles of Each Other.

FRIGHTENED AWAY BY SHOTS

J. W. Davis Engages in a Running Fight With Marauders Who Finally Escape.

It is very probable that horse thieves are working in this section of the country as two attempts at stealing have been made recently, one of them early yesterday morning and the other the night before. The attempts were in such close proximity that it is highly probable that the same men were the offenders in both instances. Early yesterday morning robbers were frightened away from the J. W. Davis farm a few miles southeast of the city with gun shots after the thieves had two horses and were leading them away. A robbery was attempted at the Casper Johnson farm, about two miles west of the city the night before, only just a few hours previous to the one on the Davis farm. They were discovered at the Johnson farm in the barn before they had a chance to make away with any of the horses.

Mr. Davis arose early yesterday morning, as he intended to drive to Greensburg and attend the fair. He heard a disturbance at the barn while he was dressing and, going out to investigate, found two strangers leading two of his best driving horses away. He ran back to the house and, procuring his gun, opened fire on the men. The two robbers produced revolvers and a fusillade of shots followed. Davis continued to pour volley after volley into the men and they ran, leading the horses after them and turning occasionally to make a wild shot at their pursuer. The running fight continued for several minutes with Mr. Davis a shade the best of the argument for he had his enemies on the run.

The pursued men finally gave up the fight and abandoned the horses. They put up their revolvers and took to the woods. They dodged into a corn field and in that manner escaped. Davis, who was close on their heels, did not give up the chase until he was certain that he could not possibly catch the two men. He returned and took his two horses back to the barn.

Casper Johnson was away from his home at the time that robbers attempted to steal his horses. It is supposed that they were after horse-flesh, as the hired hand, Ralph Kirkpatrick, was attracted by a noise at the barn. Kirkpatrick opened fire on the robbers with a rifle and they all fled. One of the party awaited the others in a rig at the front of the house, but he, too, was frightened away when he heard the shots. After it was thought that all of the night marauders had been put to flight another man was seen to start to leave the barn. He withdrew hastily when he found that he was discovered and remained in the barn about an hour. He was later seen leaving the barn, when young Kirkpatrick fired three shots at the fleeing figure. It is not thought that he hit any of the robbers.

STOLE AN AUTO.

The police have been asked to keep a watch for R. G. Wine, who stole an automobile in Detroit, drove it to Terre Haute and there sold it. Wine is described as being 25 years of age, five feet and nine inches tall and of dark sandy complexion. A reward of $50 is offered for his arrest.

FORMER AUDITOR TO LEAVE

W. B. Wright Shipped His Household Goods to Toledo, O., Today.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wright and son Harold shipped the last of their household goods today and will leave tomorrow for their new home in Toledo, Ohio, where Mr. Wright will enter the newspaper business with his brother, Nat Wright. He will be associated with the accounting department of the Toledo Blade. Mr. Wright was formerly auditor of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company with offices here. He resigned his position, it taking effect the first of this month.

WOMEN DISGUSTED BY MAN'S ACTIONS

Called Police Last Night to Arrest a Stranger in West Fifth Street.

FEAR HE WOULD DO VIOLENCE

The police were called to the home of Mrs. Saddler in West Fifth street last night to arrest a strange man who was offending the residents of that district with his disgusting actions. The women in that neighborhood were all wrought up and excited over the affair and urged that a policeman be sent at once when the call was put in at police headquarters at the central fire station. They said that the man had done things which were offensive to the women and they feared that he would do them violence if he was not either frightened away or arrested. City Marshal Jesse Harlow went to the neighborhood, but could find nothing of the stranger. He had evidently heard the police call made as it was found that he had disappeared soon after that.

TO HOLD MEETING TO REORGANIZE

Public Gathering in Court House Tonight When New Chautauqua Officers Will be Elected.

GOOD ATTENDANCE IS URGED

A big public meeting will be held in the court house this evening to reorganize the chautauqua association in preparation for making arrangements for the eighth annual assembly which will be held here next year. The new officers will be elected tonight, new committees will be appointed and the work to make the next year's event bigger and greater than ever will be started at once. The program committee expects to engage its talent this fall so that they will get the choice of what the bureaus have to offer. The guarantee fund for next year's assembly has been raised and everything is in readiness for the work to be started. Everyone is invited to come and take part in the reorganization meeting tonight. The officers of the association for last year were: Lincoln Giffin, president; Dr. C. H. Parsons, vice-president; T. A. Craig, secretary, and Earl H. Payne, treasurer.

THE WEATHER

Generally fair tonight and Saturday. Moderate temperature.

INSTITUTE IS APPRECIATED

Teachers Have Found Institute Instructive, Pleasing and Far From Tiring.

PRINCIPALS HAVE A MEETING

Dr. A. B. VanOrmer Talked This Morning on "Literature in the High Schools."

Today brought to the close the Rush County Teachers Institute, which has been being held throughout the entire week at the assembly room of the Rush county court house. Universal satisfaction is expressed by the teachers of the county over the entire institute. In Dr. A. B. VanOrmer, they found a man who was an excellent talker, possessed of a pleasing voice and a fascinating delivery. Dr. VanOrmer is a man who ranks high in the educational circles of that State, known to quite an extent for the part that he has played in advancing and uplifting the teaching profession, which is no other than Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Rosa Mikels is an Indiana woman, who is a graduate of DePauw University, and who has had experience as a teacher, as principal and as professor. Her talks at the institute dealt more with the practical than the theoretical. L. M. Tilson, who had charge of the music is a musical instructor in the Connorsville public schools, and he accomplished this much at the least, that of making the pedagogues realize what could be done in spare moments with music and art.

This morning Dr. VanOrmer talked to the high school section of the institute on "Literature in the High School." After a few remarks teeming with good advice to high school teachers, he turned the assembly into a class, had them ask any question which they felt they would like to have answered. The fact was made obvious that literature and science were the two most important elements in education, and that of all the subjects taught in the public schools that literature stood the highest as an aid to character building. A discussion then ensued as to the relative value of English classics to aid in character uplifting. The works that stood the highest in the teachers' minds and Dr. VanOrmer's mind were Silas Marner, The Vision of Sir Launfal, David Copperfield, The Tale of Two Cities and The Merchant of Venice.

At noon today County Superintendent Randall had a meeting of the principals throughout the county to discuss plans for the coming school year. Many of the teachers who have been attending the institute returned to their homes this afternoon.

The Rev. E. E. Burdick of Westport, Ind., will preach at the First Baptist church Sunday in the absence of the regular pastor, the Rev. E. C. Myers, who is away on his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stone have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Miss Erema Harriet, to Rufus Allen of Anderson. The wedding will take place on Thursday, September first, at their residence in North Harrison street.

REMARKABLE IS CHANGE FOUND

Only Eight Survive, Whose Pictures Were in the Group, Which Was Taken in 1877.

J. B. LOWDEN, OLDEST THERE

The Association Chose Their Officers For the Ensuing Year—John F. Moses is President.

The Old Settlers meeting of 1910 has come and gone, and it revealed some very interesting facts as to the changes that have taken place in the ranks within the last few years. One of the most interesting and most remarkable is the one concerning the picture of the members of the association which was made up in 1877 by A. J. Sargent, who was one of the pioneer photographers of this city. In the group there were the pictures of 150 of the settlers of the county. The majority of the people whose likenesses were in the picture, were married people, although there were quite a few whose wives' pictures were not embodied in the group and a few who were bachelors. Yesterday the remarkable discovery was made that of the entire number on the picture all but Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Blackledge, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. M. Alexander, El Dill, George and Louis Newhouse and A. B. Hood have passed into the great beyond.

The oldest man present at the convention yesterday was J. D. Lowden of Marion county, who was born in Bourbon county, Ky., on September 28, 1818. In the year 1824 in company with his parents he came to this county, before hardly enough underbrush had been cleared to make driving possible. Mr. Lowden, who is very hale and hearty for one of so ripe an age, says that he just has dim recollections of this event. He continued to be a resident of this county until quite a while after his maturity. It is certainly very interesting to converse with a man of his age, who is possessed with so keen an intellect, and hear him tell of the wonderful evolution that has taken place in this section of the country that he holds within his memory.

John F. Moses was elected president of the association for the ensuing year. George W. Looney, Edson L. Aikens and E. H. Wolfe were chosen as vice presidents; Wm. M. Alexander, corresponding secretary; A. G. Reeve, statistician; Joseph R. Woods, treasurer, and Allen R. Holden, recording secretary.

TO RESUME UNION SERVICES

Rev. J. W. Turner Will Preach at U. P. Church Sunday Night.

The union meetings will be resumed Sunday night after having been postponed for two weeks on account of the chautauqua. The Rev. J. W. Turner of the St. Paul M. E. church will preach at the United Presbyterian church Sunday night. All of the churches will join in the services.

It was not too hot last night for thirty-five couples to attend the dance which was given at the Modern Woodmen hall. The music was furnished by Bert Mitchell of Indianapolis. The non-resident guests were Miss Marie Deremas of Indianapolis; Miss Marie Stafford of Shelbyville; Morris Barley and William Moor of Anderson; Carl Tingle of Connorsville, and Ed Hamilton of Richmond.

Oil and coal are successfully burned together under boilers in England.

WEALTHY FARMER IS DEAD

William Myers Expires at His Home in Gwynneville.

The funeral services of William Myers, who died at his home in Gwynneville yesterday from an abscess on his lungs, will be held at the M. E. church at Morristown Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. Myers was sixty-four years old and was a prominent retired farmer, he having moved to Gwynneville about two years ago. He was a wealthy man and leaves broad acres to his widow, who is his only survivor.

SMALL BLAZE ATTRACTS CROWD

Fire Destroys Outbuilding at Home of Mr. and Mrs. George Sparks in Julian Street.

THREATENS OTHER BUILDINGS

A large crowd of people gathered in North Julian street about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, attracted by fire which razed a small outbuilding back of the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Sparks to the ground. The property belongs to Mrs. James Brown and was a complete loss. About the only thing of value destroyed was a good set of carpenter's tools. It is thought that several boys in the neighborhood who were playing in the shed just before the blaze started were the cause for the fire. Several barns and one house in close proximity to the building were threatened for a time, but after the arrival of the fire department, the blaze was soon extinguished.

WILL BOWEN BUYS OUT AUTO BUSINESS

Firm of Worth & Bowen Dissolves Partnership, New Owner Assuming Full Control.

AN EXCLUSIVE AUTO BUSINESS.

William E. Bowen and Charles Worth, who have been doing business in North Main street under the firm name of Worth & Bowen have dissolved partnership, taking effect today. Mr. Bowen bought out Mr. Worth's interest and assumed full control of the business. The new owner will take all of the old accounts of the firm in his new business. He will continue to operate a garage, and will repair automobiles. The heating and plumbing part of the concern will be dispensed with entirely, and Mr. Bowen will be in the automobile business exclusively.

Mr. Bowen has a new and up-to-date garage, which is liberally patronized by auto owners all over the county.

ROPE-HOLDERS.

The Rev. S. A. Morrow of the Arlington M. E. church will speak at that place next Sunday morning on the theme, "Rope-Holders." At night he will deliver one of his practical sermons-lectures on "Marriage." The public is invited.

Word has been received by John F. Moses that his granddaughter, Martha Glesner, who is quite ill at the Glesner home in Fort Collins, Col., is much improved. Mrs. Moses is at the bedside of her granddaughter.

LOATH TO LEAVE NATIVE HEATH

Herd of Cattle, Brought Here to be Shipped, Break Away and Make Way Back Home.

ARE FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE

Few of Bovines Were Captured After Devastating Corn Fields in the Vicinity of Big Four Station.

It seems that a herd of cattle, purchased by Frank Koppes of Nappanee, Ind., from Bert Reeve of near Arlington, are loath to leave their native soil, Rush county, where they were born and raised. They are now making their way toward home after having been brought to the Big Four station here to be loaded. The cattle drivers had the herd almost into the stock pens at the Big Four when the cattle stampeded and broke away. They have been loose since Tuesday evening and have devastated in that time about all of the corn fields in that vicinity.

The cattle broke into a corn field belonging to J. C. Clore near the railway station and practically ruined the large field of sixty-five acres. They have been crunching the corn since Tuesday night and have put away a number of bushels in that manner. But the greatest loss to Mr. Clore comes from the cattle breaking the corn down. Whenever the drivers would attempt to run the cattle out of the field they stampeded and tore the young and tender corn to shreds. Whenever a stalk of corn was broken off, it was ruined as it will not grow again and is not now far enough developed to ever be any good for feeding purposes. Mr. Clore does not feel that he can estimate his loss accurately, although it will run up into the dollars as the corn would have been very valuable when it had developed.

The cattle herders worked long and hard to get the stampeding bovines out of the corn, but all to no avail. When they escaped into the corn field, an attempt was made to get them out, but that was impossible on account of the darkness. The seventeen head were allowed to remain in the Clore corn field all night and munch down the tender corn stalks and ears. It is feared that some of the cattle may die as the result of eating so much of the green stuff. The herd is valued at about one thousand dollars.

Wednesday morning the men in charge of the herd, assisted by Mr. Clore, renewed their efforts to locate the cattle and were successful in a measure. A few of them were driven out of the field after their all night's feed. Yesterday morning about ten of them still remained and refused to be caught or driven out. Some time during the day yesterday four more of them were captured and the remaining six broke into another field. They tore that field up considerably and finally broke over into the marshes in the bottom land along the river. The six are still fugitives from justice and it was reported this morning that they were near the Will Brown farm, west of the city, slowly making their way back to their native heath.

Lesson VIII.—Third Quarter, For
Aug. 21, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xx, 17-34.
Memory Verses, 25-27—Golden Text,
Matt. xx, 28—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This lesson may be summed up in two great truths, His humiliation and His compassion for the blind. Both James and John and their mother were as truly blind as the blind men by the wayside, though not in the same measure or in the same way. The men by the wayside were blind to things temporal, the others in a great measure to things eternal. Again for the third or fourth time Jesus, on His way to Jerusalem for the last time, predicts His death and resurrection, events which were ever before Him, for He was set apart for this before the foundation of the world (1 Pet. i, 20). Both in the law, the prophets and the psalms it was many times predicted and typified of Him from the time when He Himself provided redemption clothing for Adam and Eve by the shedding of blood (Gen. iii, 21). And after His resurrection He specially opened these very Scriptures to His disciples (Luke xxiv, 25-27, 44-48). But until the Spirit came at Pentecost to dwell in them they did not seem able to receive the teaching. It is one thing to have the Lord Jesus Christ as our teacher, and "Who teacheth like Him?" (Job xxxvi, 22), but it is necessary to have His Holy Spirit in us in order that the truth may grasp us in power and be lived out in us. We must remember that the sufferings precede the glory, but if we suffer with Him we shall be glorified together. The greater part of this lesson is found in Matthew and Mark, but the first portion, which we are now considering, is found in Luke also. The account by Mark is the most full, and he tells us that the disciples were amazed and afraid. We also will often be amazed and afraid at many things unless filled with and taught by the Spirit. Luke says they understood none of these things (Luke xviii, 34).

The request of James and John, either directly or through their mother, or both, that they might sit on His right and left hand in His kingdom led to His question, "Are ye able to drink of the cup and be baptized with the baptism?" "Yes," they said, "we are able." Poor humanity! How little we understand it! Things heavenly are so far beyond us, and things earthly are too much for us, and as to our own hearts they are deceitful and desperately wicked. But He who knows us thoroughly loves us in spite of all our weakness and wickedness and is able and willing to make new creatures of us if we will but let Him. Again He teaches that humility is true greatness and that even He, "the Son of Man," came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many" (verse 28). It is written in Psalm xlix, 6, 7, "They that trust in their wealth and boast themselves in the multitude of their riches—none of them can by any means redeem his brother, nor give to God a ransom for him." But it is also written in Job xxxiii, 24, "Deliver him from going down to the pit: I have found a ransom." And again in 1 Tim. ii, 5, 6, "The man Christ Jesus gave Himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time." His great atonement is sufficient for the whole world, but it becomes efficient only for those who truly receive Him. It is only He that hath the Son who hath life.

In order that He might become a ransom for our sins He humbled Himself from heaven, from the glory which He had with the Father before the world was, to Bethlehem and Nazareth and Gethsemane and Calvary. He who had no sin and knew no sin humbled Himself to bear our sins and suffer for them in our stead. He was made sin for us that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him (II Cor. v, 21). We can write it, read it, talk about it, but we cannot comprehend it. He does not ask us to, but He does ask us so to believe it that we shall in gratitude to Him live a life of ministry unto Him in whatever way He may appoint—not thinking anything of ourselves or seeking anything for ourselves, but living just to show Him to others by a life of loving ministry.

According to Matthew He healed two blind men as He departed from Jericho, and Mark gives the name of one as Bartimaeus. Matthew's two included Mark's one, so there is no discrepancy in these accounts. Luke says in chapter xviii, 35-43, that He healed a blind man as He entered Jericho and then adds in xix, 1, that He entered and passed through Jericho, visiting the home of Zaccheus as He passed through. It seems plain, then, that He healed three blind men, one as He entered Jericho and two as He left it, going on toward Jerusalem. There is nothing here to reconcile, but just room for simple faith and gratitude that three instead of one were so blessed and that Zaccheus was saved as He passed through. Considering the record by Matthew, note the cry of these men which could not be stopped as they heard that their opportunity had come. They had heard of Him and of His marvelous power over disease and death and doubtless had longed to come to Him, but how could they search Him out—two poor, blind beggars. Now He is actually passing along the road close by them.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week
Beginning Aug. 21, 1910.

Topic.—Duty under difficulties.—11 Tim. ii, 1-13. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Duty is one of the supreme words in the human language. Next to love it is the mainspring of man's performance of great and noble deeds. Duty, perhaps in the secular walks of life is the supreme motive of correct action. It is a word that needs to have the changes wrought upon it day by day in the age in which we live. Selfishness has too large a part in our lives today. Duty is cast aside, and in the industrial, financial, social and political world ambition has usurped its place. High places are sought not to perform duties that will benefit society or the state, but that personal ambitions may be reached. In religion love occupies the supreme place. "We love Him because He first loved us." Even the performance of duty is placed by Christ upon love. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you. Obeyance, the performance of duty, are made the test of friendship or of love. Moreover, Solomon after reviewing the "best good of man" comes to this conclusion: "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter. Fear God and keep His commandments. This is the whole duty of man." Moreover, Christ declares in the New Testament, "Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall inherit the kingdom, but he that doeth the will of My Father in Heaven." Duty, therefore, is a great word, and it is well to repeat that it should have a large place in every human life. As the poet has said:

Where duty calls or danger,
Be never wanting there.

The performance of duty is not always easy. Sometimes and usually it is hard to do. Difficulties ever seem to stare us in the face when an important duty is thrust upon us. The man who in time of war does his duty for his country finds it no easy task to do so. The facing of shot and shell is no summer vacation. It demands bravery and courage and strength. To perform our religious duties is no less hard at times. To some it is easier to face a cannon than to confess Christ before men or to lead in public prayer or to speak a word for Jesus, especially when others are speaking against Him. As Joshua succeeded Moses and was about to undertake the difficult duty of conquering the land of Canaan God emphasized to him that he should "be strong and very courageous." Moreover, he told him that He (the Lord) would be with him (Joshua) as He had been with Moses. When Paul left Timothy as pastor of the church at Ephesus he knew that in the performance of his duties he urged him to "be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus." Again he adds, "Endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."

The soldier who in the day of danger shirks his duty well deserves to be called a coward. So may he be called who as a soldier of Christ fails when duty spells danger. Are difficulties to keep us from the performance of our duties? If so then we are not true disciples of Christ. The greater the difficulties the greater should be our trust in God and our determination to do what He wills us to do.

Must I be carried to the skies
On flowery beds of ease
While others fight to win the prize
And sail through bloody seas?

Sure, I must fight if I would reign.
Increase my courage, Lord,
I'll bear the toil, endure the pain,
Supported by Thy word.

First C. E. Society In Australasia.
A tablet commemorating the formation of the first Christian Endeavor society in Australia has been affixed to the exterior of the City Tabernacle Baptist church of Brisbane, Queensland. This is the church of which that earnest and devoted Christian Endeavorer, Rev. James Mursell, is pastor. Mr. Mursell has done splendid work for Christian Endeavor in five widely separated pastorates. The following is the inscription on this tablet. This church shares with the Williston church of Portland, Me., the honor of having thus recognized the beginning of Christian Endeavor in the American and the Australian commonwealths:
For Christ and the Church.

Concerning this oldest society in Australia the pastor writes us that it is undergoing a thorough and drastic reconstitution. "Without dissolving the members have agreed to renew their pledge, and it is proposed to form one society with junior, intermediate, young people's and graduate departments. Graduation will depend not simply upon age, but even more upon circumstances. There will be no honorary members, as these will become graduates and make the church prayer meeting theirs."

I am glad to notice that this new society is leading the way in this somewhat new departure in Christian Endeavor of a graduate or senior society and hope it will be followed by many of our societies in all parts of the world.—Francis E. Clark, D. D.

The C. E. Convention In India.
In speaking of the Christian Endeavor convention held in Agra, India, the Outlook says: "The whole body of delegates constituted an evidence of the interchurch, international and the interracial character of the Christian Endeavor movement. This occasion was, in fact, a realization of the dream of that cobbler missionary, William Carey, who foresaw a hundred years ago the time when missionary stations would form a chain from northern India to Ceylon."

W. J. Bryan and Temperance.

A thrilling period in the recent St. Paul International Christian Endeavor convention is thus described by an eyewitness:

Following the Nebraska delegation, Mr. Coleman spoke of the pledge signing campaign which Mr. Bryan is anxious Christian Endeavorers should take up and read the autograph pledge which the Nebraskan leader had sent him: "I promise, God helping me, to abstain from the use of all intoxicating liquors as a beverage." A burst of enthusiasm followed the announcement of this new movement, of which Christian Endeavorers are to hear much in the months to come.

Don'ts For Endeavorites.

Don't fail to live the truth if you would be faithful to it.

Don't persuade other people beyond your own convictions.

If the average man doesn't get all that's coming to him he is lucky.

People who set a good example never know what it will hatch out.

Don't make the mistake of burying your talent lest your future time be occupied in sowing vices.

Influence of Jesus.

In the early days the influence of Jesus was explained according to the genius of that age. Today we must try to account for it in accordance with the genius of this age. They said it was due to His person. He was God. We say it was due to His character. He was the calmest and purest and most unselfish of mortals.—Rev. A. G. Singen, Presbyterian, Providence, R. I.

They Charge Corruption.
Omaha, Neb., Aug. 19.—Alleging that at least 2,000 fraudulent votes were cast at the primaries held Tuesday, the campaign managers for Governor Shallenberger announce they will file contest proceedings if the returns show Dahlman's nomination.

Victim of Assassins Dead.
Bedford, Ind., Aug. 19.—Phil Rock, a banker and merchant, of Oostic, who was shot from ambush near this city Monday, is dead of his wounds. His assailants are unidentified.

JAMES A. PATTEN.

Well Known Broker Who Has Finally Retired From Pitts.

New York, Aug. 19.—In line with his recent announcement that he would retire from active speculation, James A. Patten's seat on the New York Stock Exchange, which he has held since 1898, has been sold for $70,000. The name of the purchaser has not been made public.

MAKING A TRAVESTY OF LAW SAYS COURT

Judge Kersten Denounces Chicago Jury Fixers.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Judge Kersten, in whose court Lee O'Neil Browne is up for retrial on a charge of buying votes for Senator Lorimer, was compelled to dismiss six more veniremen. This makes 111 veniremen dismissed from the last three panels on their own statements that they have been "approached" with reference to their possible service as jurors.

"I do not know who is tampering with the veniremen," said the court. "I do not take sides, but someone is doing corrupt work. I sincerely hope we will find out who is guilty, and that they will be brought to the bar of justice. They are making a travesty of the administration of the law." The court's remarks were addressed to the lawyers and veniremen generally.

SOLDIERS TO MEET

Fort Benjamin Harrison to Be Scene of Great Maneuvers.

Indianapolis, Aug. 19.—Extensive arrangements and preparations are being made for the quartering of thousands of troops which will participate in the biennial maneuvers to be held at Fort Benjamin Harrison throughout the month of September.

Besides the regular troops the national guard of Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia will participate. It is possible that the Sixth cavalry from Detroit, Mich., will march from Fort Wayne to the fort. The Tenth infantry of Fort Benjamin Harrison will go into camp on Aug. 30. Lieutenant Colonel Cruse has arrived from Chicago and Brigadier General Charles Hodges, who is to be in command of the camp, will arrive next week.

Fatal Yard Accident.

Logansport, Ind., Aug. 19.—Robert Meadows, who had both legs crushed off in the Vandalia yards, is dead at St. Joseph hospital. Herbert Labounty, who suffered the loss of a leg when Meadows was injured, is in a critical condition and is not expected to live. The accident was caused by the switch engine kicking a box car into several others on a siding. The two men were fixing an airbrake hose when the accident occurred.

Double Tragedy in Tenderloin.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 19.—Because his wife was leading a wayward life and refused to abandon the underworld, John Roth, a saloon man, entered a resort in the tenderloin where he found his wife, and shot her to death in the presence of several people. He then committed suicide. The couple had been married only a few months.

Thought Him a Ghost.

Logansport, Ind., Aug. 19.—Reported to have died last winter in the south, Joseph Kilgore, formerly of this city, stepped off a train here and surprised his friends. Several of them were so astounded at seeing him that they backed away, and it was some time before they could be convinced that he was a creature of flesh and blood.

The charred remains of the Rev. George Watson, Jewish rabbi, aged seventy-one years, were found in the ruins of the Lindsay building at Jacksonville, Ill., which was destroyed by fire.

Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight title holder, has broken down physically and may never indulge in a championship battle again.

Typewriter Appeal to You?

Every important bearing in an expensive watch is a small gem of a hardness not susceptible to wear. The purpose of the jewels is to insure by reduction of friction and wear, the accuracy which makes a timepiece valuable.

The first successful use of a ball-bearing typebar in a writing-in-night machine was by the manufacturers of the New Model L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter.

Ball Bearings not only for the typebars, but at all vital wearing points of the New Model are made to serve exactly the same purpose as the jewelled bearings of an accurate, expensive watch. They prevent play and false motion, banish friction, and insure to the operator, for every ounce of energy applied, a full equivalent of perfect work. You demand a full jewelled watch. Why not a full ball-bearing typewriter?

Thomas Taggart is taking an active part in all the Democratic organization meetings over the State. In the meantime, Governor Marshall, logical head of the Democratic party in the State, goes fishin'.

Chicago is to try the experiment of a two-year school course, leading especially to some vocation. Nine different courses will be offered, none of which concerns itself so much with merely cultural matters as with the question of preparation for some practical means of livelihood after the pupils leave school. With a course cut down to two years and leading directly to a life work, the temptation of the average boy to drop out of school when he reaches the high school ought to be greatly reduced. The Chicago experiment will be watched with extraordinary interest.

Governor Marshall devised a scheme for disfranchising a large part of the industrial vote of Indiana, and tried to force the bill through the last legislature. Even the Democrats revolted against the injustice of the act, which, on its face not only was unfair, but unconstitutional as well. Democrats are now referring to this proceeding on the Democratic governor's part as if it were praiseworthy, when in fact it was one of the many tricks played against labor which will work to defeat the tricky Democrats this year. It would be interesting to labor people to know just what the "Marshall bill" against the labor vote contained. Will the Democratic publicity bureau print the text of that unjust measure?

E. E. Neal, Republican nominee for congress in the Ninth district, has thrown consternation into the camp of the opposition by putting several pointed questions to Congressman Martin Morrison, his Democratic opponent. Among other things Mr. Neal demands to know whether Mr. Morrison ever voted for a Republican or not. As Mr. Morrison must depend on Republican votes for his success, and as a reply to the question will be awaited with much interest by all Republicans, the Neal people feel that Morrison is "in a hole." If he says he "has voted" for Republicans, then Democrats will feel at liberty to do a little "scratching" on their own hooks. On several matters of importance, Mr. Neal has put Morrison on the defensive. The Neal Coup is regarded as a very shrewd move, and Mr. Neal has risen greatly in general estimation since he displayed aggressive purpose.

Between 5,500 and 6,000 dailies is the total given by the San Francisco Chronicle for the entire world, over 900 of them credited to Germany, 250 to Great Britain, while Paris alone has 150—more than London, New York, Philadelphia and Boston added together. Le Petit Journal of Paris has the largest circulation in the world; but the native dialect papers of India are read by the most people, because they are circulated until completely worn out. The Post Zeitung of Frankfurt, Germany, is the oldest newspaper in Europe, but in China, the Kin Pan is a thousand years old, and the Tsing Palo, or Peking News, is the oldest newspaper in the world, having come out regularly for nearly 1,400 years. Its circulation is about 10,000. The extreme care necessary in publishing this paper is shown by the statement that, until recently at least, the punishment for an error in printing was instant death. What an awful slaughter there would be in this country if that were made the penalty here!

Inconsistency.

A man will go to a newspaper and ask a favor, something which he would not often ask of his best friend. He will request that such a thing be kept out of the columns of the newsgiver, as he knows that he has done wrong. He does not care for himself. No, if he was the only one implicated, he would not care a rap what was said about him in the paper. But he says there is his mother, his wife, his family and his brothers and sisters, whom he does not want to disgrace. He asks that the favor be granted for their sake.

But how many men ever think of their mothers or their families when they commit the deeds which will cause them to break into print? How many men, who ask the favor of the newspaper ever think of the disgrace before they do the thing which they expect to be immune from publicity? Very few of them grant the favor themselves by thinking before acting.

LURED FROM CITY AND THEN ROBBED

Frank Gordon of Knightstown Says He Was Lured to Country by Center Township Men.

WERE ARRESTED BY BEBOUT

Alighted From Buggy and Was Rendered Unconscious by Blows—
Pocketbook Was Stolen.

It has since developed that the four young men of Center township, Bert and Loyd Shaffer, Linnie Duke and Loring Lee, who were arrested on a larceny charge Wednesday evening by Sheriff Clata Bebout and his deputies, made an assault on Frank Gordon, age twenty-five of Knightstown, who preferred charges against them for robbery. The story of the robbery and assault is told by the New Castle Courier:

The robbery was committed in Knightstown on the night of July 31. The young men live a few miles from Knightstown in Rush county and on the night in question were in Knightstown having a good time. It is charged that Loring Lee and another of the party approached Gordon in a rig and told him that there was a man at the school house who wanted a good fellow to do some farm work and that they would take him down in their buggy if he wanted to go. Gordon got in and on the way to the school house another member of the gang joined the party.

When they reached the school house and had alighted, Lee, who was apparently the leader, said, "Look out, Gordon, some one is going to hit you." Gordon turned his head quickly and received a blow on the head and another in the mouth.

When he regained consciousness his pocketbook, containing his week's wages, was gone and he was lying on the front steps of his home about 1 o'clock Monday morning. He told his mother of the affair and about 4 o'clock that morning she drove to the home of Lee and inquired if he had brought her son home. He told her he had, but would say nothing further. Several days later he called at the home of Gordon and told Mrs. Gordon if she filed charges against him and the others he would make it hot for her.

The men will be held until the October term of court and the officers are of the opinion that they can be connected with a number of other misdemeanors reported in and about Knightstown.

WILL MAKE HIGH SCHOOL PRACTICAL

Study of Agriculture is to be Added to the Course All Over the State.

WAS PREPARED AT PURDUE

Robert J. Aley, State superintendent of public instruction, who is now sending out the outlines for the uniform course of study in the commissioned and accredited high schools of the State, effective for the coming school year, believes that the adoption of a course in agriculture for high school students has answered a charge often made that the high schools of the State offer nothing of practical benefit to the farmer boy or to the city boy who may contemplate farming.

The course was prepared by the agricultural department of Purdue university, under direction of W. E. Stone, president of the university, and adapted to the high schools by the State board.

AMUSEMENTS

The Star Grand airdome offers tonight a Lubin film entitled "The Heart of Sioux." It is an Indian drama and deals with a college graduate who is assigned to teach an Indian school on one of the government reservation. It shows that hearts are pretty much the same the world over and an effective tableau to a story of unusual interest. Earl Robertson will sing "I'll March with April in May."

The Palace offers a Vitagraph comedy for the program tonight. "Davy Jones and Captain Brag" is said to be a comedy of considerable interest with a good plot and numerous humorous situations. It is fun from start to finish. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Vandet management announces for tonight the two pictures, "The Motherless Waif" and "The Conjuror." They are both said to be highly dramatic subjects with strong plots and interesting stories. A new illustrated song will be sung.

There is at Castletown, in the Isle of Man, a clock that was telling Manxmen the time of day before Oliver Cromwell was born; and there is a clock, it is said, still marking time at Castle Rushen which Queen Elizabeth herself presented to the owner of that castle some 310 years ago.

The Girl and the Bill

By Bannister Merwin

Illustrations by Ray Walton

(Copyright, 1900, Dodd, Mead Company.)

"There is one thing more to do," he said. "It is seven o'clock; I don't know how much longer we shall be able to breathe easily, and I am going to write a note which will explain matters to the persons who find us—if we should not happen to be able to tell them."

Laboriously he penciled on the back of an old envelope the explanation of their presence there, making a complete and careful charge against Alcantre. He laid the message on the floor.

On second thought, he picked it up again and put it in his pocket, for if by any chance they should be rescued, he might forget it. In that event its discovery would possibly bring an exposure of facts which the girl and her father would not care to have disclosed.

A faint whisper from the girl. "What is it?" he asked, bending tenderly for her answer.

"You must lie down, too."

He began to move away, as if to obey her.

"No," she whispered—"here. I want you near me."

Slowly he reclined and laid his head on the coat. Her warm breath was on his face. He felt for her hand, and found it held tightly to his.

His own mind was still torn with doubts as to the best course. Should he put himself out of the way that she might live? The sacrifice might prove unnecessary. Rescue might come when it was too late for him, yet not too late, if he did not hurry his own end. And if she truly loved him and knew that she loved him, such an act on his part would leave her a terrible grief which time would hardly cure.

He tried to analyze their situation more clearly, to throw new light on his duty. The clerks must all have gone by now. There would be a visit or two from a night watchman, perhaps, but there was scarcely one chance in a hundred that he would unbolt the door.

The air was vibrating rapidly; they could not both live through the night. But—if she loved him as he loved her, she would be happier to die with him than to live at the cost of his life.

He pictured for himself again that last look of her face; its beauty, its strength, its sweet sympathy. He seemed to see the stray wisp of hair that had found its way down upon her cheek. Her perfect lips—how well he remembered!—were the unopened buds of pure womanly passion.

After all, whether she loved him or not, there would still be much in life for her.

Time would cure her sorrow. There would be many claims upon her, and she would sooner or later resume her normal activities.

Slowly he disengaged his hand from her clinging fingers. In his other hand he still held his pocketknife. To open a vein in his wrist would take but a moment. His life would well away, there on the tiles.

She would think he was asleep; and then she herself would drift away into unconsciousness which would be broken only after the door was opened in the morning.

Bah! His mind cleared in a flash. What a fool he was! Need he doubt her for an instant? Need he question what she would do when she found that he was dead? And she would know it quickly. This living pulsing girl beside him loved him! She had told him in every way except in words. In life and in death they belonged to each other.

They were one forever. They still lived, and while they lived they must hope. And if hope failed, there still would be love.

His pent-up emotions broke restraint. With unthinking swiftness, he threw his arm over her and drew her tight to him. His lips found hers in a long kiss—clung in ecstasy for another, and another.

Her arms went about his neck. He felt as though her soul had passed from her lips to his own.

"My lover!" she whispered. "I think I have always cared."

"Oh, Girl, Girl!" He could utter no more.

With a faint sigh she said: "I am glad it is to be together." She sat up, still holding his hand. "If it need be at all," she added, a new firmness in her voice.

"If it need be at all!" Orme searched his mind again for some promise of escape from this prison which had been so suddenly glorified for them. The smooth, unbreakable walls; the thin seam of the door; the thermometer. Why had he not thought of it before? The thermometer!

With an exclamation, he leaped to his feet.

Striking with his heel, he tried to break the metal grating. It would not yield. Again and again he threw his weight into the blows, but without effect.

At last he remembered his pocket-knife. Thrusting one end of it through the grating, he prodded at the glass coils within. There was a tinkling sound. He had succeeded.

He groped his way back to the girl and seated himself beside her. With the confession of their love, a new hope had sprung up in them. They might still be freed, and, though the air was becoming stifling, neither of them believed that a joy as great as theirs could be born to live but a few hours.

For the hundredth time he was saying: "I can't believe that we have known each other only one day."

"And even now," she mused, "you don't know my name. Do you want me to tell you?"

"Not until you are ready."

"Then wait. It will come in due form. Some one will say, 'Mr. Orme, Miss—'"

"The name doesn't matter," said Orme. "To me you will always be just—Girl."

The joyous moments rushed by. She had crept close to him again, and with her head on his shoulder, was saying: "There is so much for us to tell each other."

"There seems to be only one thing to say now," he kissed her tenderly.

"Oh, but there is much more."

"Where shall we begin?" asked Orme.

"Well, to be matter-of-fact, do you live in Chicago?"

"No, dear. I live in New York."

"I didn't even know that," she whispered. "And about me. Our family home has been in one of the suburbs here since I was a small girl. For several years I was sent east to school, and after that I went abroad with some friends. And since then—"

"It can't be so very long," he whispered, "though you speak as though it were decades."

"It is six years. Since then my father and I have spent our winters in the east, coming back home for the summers. Just think how much you are learning about me!"

Orme lifted her hand to his lips. Suddenly the room filled with a light which to their expanded pupils seemed bright as the sun. The door had been opened, and an electric light in the reception hall shone in. Framed in the doorway was the outline of a man.

Orme shouted joyfully and jumped to his feet.

"Why—what?" the man began.

Orme helped the girl up, and together they went to the outer light. For a moment they could do nothing but breathe, so good the fresh air of the reception room seemed to them. Then, looking at the man again, Orme saw it was the clerk to whom Alcantre had made his accusation two

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Rushville Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Rushville readers.

Mrs. Eward Green, Front and Warwick streets, Knightstown, Ind., says: "When I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills in the spring of 1907, I did so knowing that they lived up to all the claims made for them. A member of the family suffered greatly from backache and other symptoms of disordered kidneys. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to our attention, a supply was procured and I must say that no remedy could have given greater satisfaction. A few days' use of Doan's Kidney Pills convinced us of their curative powers and after the contents of two boxes had been taken, the backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble had disappeared. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills at every opportunity and take pleasure in doing so."

My Corns Don't Hurt A Bit.

Tired, Ailing, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet, Corns, Calluses and Bunions, TIZ Cures Right Off.

Say good-bye to your corns the very first time you use TIZ. You will never know you have a corn, bunion or callous, or sweaty, tired, swollen, aching feet any more. It's just wonderful the way the pain vanishes. Rub the corn—hammer it with your fist if you wish—no more pain after TIZ than if there had never been a corn. TIZ is for corns, calluses, bunions, and all the poisonous eruptions which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

hours before. "How did you come to be in there?" the clerk demanded. Orme hesitated; then he decided to make no charges. "I got rid of that crazy fellow who was following me around," he said, "and I came back, and this young lady and I went in to examine your refrigerator. The door was ajar, and some one pushed it shut and locked it. We should have smothered if you had not come."

"It was the merest chance," said the clerk. "My work kept me late. As I was leaving, I happened to glance at the thermometer dial here. It registered below freezing. I couldn't understand that, for there is no ice in the refrigerator, so I opened the door to see."

"I broke the coil," explained Orme. "In the hope that the night watchman might be interested in the dial."

"Well," said the clerk, drawing a long breath, "you had a close shave. There isn't any night watchman—at least not in this office. If I had balanced my books on time today, you two would have stayed where you were until tomorrow morning."

"I will come in tomorrow to see Mr. Wallingham and explain everything. I will pay for a new thermometer, too, if he will let me."

"I don't think he will let you do that," said the clerk. "He will be grateful that nothing worse happened."

"Yes, I believe he will," replied Orme.

He glanced at the clock. It was a quarter after seven. Going back into the chamber which had been the scene of both their danger and their happiness, he got his coat and the girl's hat. The parchment papers crackled in his pocket as he put the coat on. The girl meantime, adjusted her hat.

"Say," said the clerk, holding the outer door open for them to pass through, "was that fellow's story about your holding notes of ours—was there anything in it?"

"Absolutely untrue," replied Orme. "He must have had you confused with somebody else."

"He must have," Orme held out his hand. "Many thanks to you for saving our lives."

Then Orme and the girl made their way to the elevator.

WHOLE COURT IN TEARS FOR BABY

Pathetic Case Before Judge Stubbs at Indianapolis.

SHOCKING PARENTAL BRUTALITY

Evidence of So Horrible a Character Was Introduced That the Venerable Judge of the Juvenile Court, With Tears Rolling Down His Cheeks, Silenced the Witnesses and Imposed Law's Full Penalty on Parents.

Indianapolis, Aug. 19.—"This is horrible, and I don't care to hear any more of the testimony," said Judge Stubbs in the juvenile court, as the tears poured down his cheeks, "and any woman who would beat a little eighteen-months-old baby in the condition I have seen it in today must have a heart of stone. I will have to inflict the severest punishment known under the law for the neglect of this baby, and both of you are to serve 180 days in prison and pay a fine of $500."

These words ended one of the most pathetic cases ever tried in the juvenile court, and before the trial had progressed very far nearly everyone in the courtroom was in tears.

Charged with brutally beating an eighteen-months-old baby until the little one was unable to stand and cried pitifully when it was touched any place on its sore body, Matthew and Marie Jones, 2920 East Twenty-sixth street, received this sentence in the court.

Mrs. Marie Jones is the stepmother of the child. She married Matthew Jones last June, when they went to Kentucky to get married, and left the baby in the care of a neighbor. At this time Mrs. Jones told the neighbor that she did not want to be bothered with the child and unless Mr. Jones got rid of it she would refuse to live with him. According to the mother the father beat the baby one night to make it go to sleep and the next morning when she showed him the marks he had made, he said he was sorry and that he would never do it again.

On several occasions Mrs. Jones would leave the baby alone in the house and be away from home nearly all day. The testimony of a little girl thirteen years old who lives next to where the Jones family lived, touched the hearts of the courtroom full of officers and visitors, and had most of them sobbing when the court said that he had heard enough. She testified that on several occasions when she was in her back yard she would see Mrs. Jones pick up a yardstick and strike the baby five or six times across its little body and face. At other times, Mrs. Jones would seize the child by the hair and give it several blows in the face with her hand.

One neighbor testified that one day when she was visiting Mrs. Jones the baby started to cry, and that Mrs. Jones took a razor strop and started to beat the child with it. When the neighbor asked Mrs. Jones if she was in the habit of beating the child with the strop, she replied that she would beat it until she wore it out unless it stopped crying. On another occasion Mrs. Jones took the baby, and because it would not stand up, she seized it by the arms and knocked it down upon the floor five times.

It did not take Judge Stubbs long after several witnesses had given their testimony to decide that both of the parents were guilty of neglecting the baby, and with a wave of his hand, he ordered them to be locked up without giving them a chance to testify in their own behalf. The baby was given into the hands of one of the neighbors until proper disposition can be made of it.

TRAIN STRUCK AUTO

And Wife of Indiana Rural Mail Carrier Was Instantly Killed.

Greensburg, Ind., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Mary Robbins, aged fifty-seven, was instantly killed by a Big Four train at a grade crossing four miles south of this city. She had accompanied her husband, Greeley Robbins, a rural mail carrier, in an automobile on his route, and while crossing the track they did not notice the approaching train until it was upon them.

Mr. Robbins attempted to put on speed and clear the track, but was too late. Mrs. Robbins jumped and the train struck her, hurling her a distance of thirty feet away into a pile of stones. Every bone in her body was broken and death was instantaneous. Although the machine was demolished, Mr. Robbins escaped hurt.

Petty Quarrel Ended Seriously.

Columbus, Ind., Aug. 19.—James Shumaker of Edinburg is in a critical condition from knife stabs on his hip, side and left breast, inflicted by Samuel Weaver, also of Edinburg. The fight started from an argument the two men had over who owns the interurban railway between Indianapolis and Seymour.

Wheat Overwhelms Boy. Boonville, Ind., Aug. 19.—Chester Goerlitz, fifteen years old, fell into a wheat bin at the Elkhorn mill and before the machinery could be stopped 1,500 bushels of wheat fell on him. Mill hands worked heroically to save him, but he was smothered when found.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair at fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of its souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

Refuses to Discuss Breach Between Himself and Taft.

NO DOUBT AS TO THE BREAK

Long Powwow at Sagamore Hill Lends Confirmation to Stories That Have Become Current as to the Irreconcilable Conflict That Has Arisen Between Roosevelt and the Administration.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Present indications from Sagamore Hill point to either a bitter fight against the administration at the Saratoga convention led by Roosevelt, or the complete absence of the colonel on that occasion. If there had been doubt as to the break between Taft and Roosevelt it would have vanished yesterday afternoon when several important political visitors rushed to the Hill and held a long powwow. The colonel himself had little or no comment to pass upon the stories printed in the newspapers. He beamed and beamed.

It was very evident at the departure of County Chairman Lloyd C. Griscom, Collector William Loeb, Jr., Congressman Cox, Naval Officers Frederick H. Kracker, and Representative W. M. Calder, that there had been big doings on the Hill. Mr. Loeb said goodbye a good many times before he stepped into a motor car that carried the whole crowd back to New York. He whispered and looked worried. The colonel was mighty calm and continued to smile.

Mr. Roosevelt is in an odd position. He is not anxious to buck the administration, because he wants to wait until later on, when the national situation will loom up so much greater than the New York situation is now. He has said that he is pleased over the action of the state committee in turning him down as temporary chairman, for if he had been forced into the chair he might be held responsible for the defeat that appears to be imminent unless there are swift and unforeseen changes. No one here is wiser to the fact that the Republican party in this state is torn by factional disputes than the ex-president.

It has been printed that the colonel would make no attack on the administration. Judging from the events of the past twenty-four hours he may have to do so a good deal sooner than he expected. Vice President Sherman in Beverly, when he was asked if a "clean cut, progressive platform" would be adopted by the convention, replied that "a clean cut Republican platform" would be adopted, with the loud pedal on Republican. This did not conduce to make the colonel shout with glee. He scowled. As a matter of fact, Mr. Roosevelt believes that Mr. Sherman as a representative of the administration, stands for a clique that the colonel cannot stand for. This is one cause of the breach.

Now that it is settled without a shadow of doubt that the colonel is going his way and the administration its way, Sagamore Hill promises to be the scene of many conferences like that of yesterday. So far as the state situation goes, Mr. Roosevelt has not made up his mind as yet. In case the old guard goes to Saratoga and tries to undo what it has already done, which is mighty doubtful, they might realize that with New York lost the colonel would be a good man to captain the sinking ship and go down with it. The colonel is pretty "cagey" when it comes to matters of this sort. For that reason he believes that he had better wait and make his onslaught of a national character which will be effective in 1912. It is by no means settled that the colonel will not be a candidate in 1912. He has not said that he would refuse the nomination if he got it. If he goes ahead and expresses his views independently and lines up with the progressive wing of the party it is generally believed here that the nomination will be forced on him, but he will wait and see what happens. His tacit indorsement of the fight made by Hiram Johnson against the machine in California shed some light upon his attitude. He expressed much pleasure in reading the news of the progress of the story on the coast. The colonel has received dozens of telegrams from all parts of the country seeking to have him discuss the breach between him and Taft. This he refuses to do.

Mr. Griscom refused to say anything concerning the talk he had with Roosevelt. He explained that when he left the Hill the understanding was that anything to be given out for publication should come from the colonel. Griscom, however, it may be stated, has the idea, as a result of his talk with Mr. Roosevelt, that the stories which have come from Oyster Bay stating that there has come a break between the colonel and Taft are not well founded. The information by those who were in conference with Mr. Roosevelt was to the effect that so far as the situation in the state is concerned the two are in entire accord.

Mr. Taft, it was asserted, is not opposed to a direct primary plan in the state platform; he is not in opposition to the plan of the progressives to reorganize the state machine, which incidentally would mean the dropping of Chairman Woodruff, and he is strongly opposed to the stirring up of faction-alism in this state this year. The authoritative statement can be made that Taft has expressed the opinion that if a Republican president is to be elected in 1912 it will be necessary to have harmony in this state, and he has more than once assured those from this state who have talked with him on conditions here that he will do everything in his power to bring about such harmony. One of the men who were with Roosevelt said, and he said in making the statement that he was expressing the colonel's feeling, that whatever differences of opinion Mr. Roosevelt might have with Mr. Taft on national matters, there was certainly no difference between them on matters concerning the Republican situation in this state.

A HISTORIC PARALLEL TO PRESENT INSTANCE

Washington Draws Comparison With Situation In 1892.

Washington, Aug. 19.—An air of gloom pervades Republican circles in Washington. Republicans who have an interest in the national success of their party freely express the opinion that the organization has not been in such a desperate plight since the gloomy period immediately preceding the renomination and defeat of President Harrison. Each day the situation takes a gloomier view from the Washington standpoint. The leaders now foresee a split in their party, and there is not one in ten but believes that Roosevelt will be a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1912. Whatever the outcome of the fight in New York may be, Republicans here expect that the rent in their party will become nation wide and that even if Roosevelt's friends fail to prevail in the state convention over the organization, his friends in the west and in the middle west will take up the fight for him and a situation may be created similar to that in 1892, when the Democrats throughout the country forced the nomination of Grover Cleveland down the throats of the Democratic organization in New York, which had declared for Hill and which protested to the very last against Cleveland.

Such a situation would impair the chances of Republican success in 1912. There are a large number of Republicans who believe that Mr. Taft could be renominated, even if Roosevelt is a candidate, just as President Harrison was renominated in 1892 over the very formidable opposition which was conjuring with the name of Blaine. But the Republicans who take this view of it feel that the very thing that happened to President Harrison in the national election that followed would happen to Mr. Taft. The disgruntlement following the disappointment of Colonel Roosevelt's enthusiastic followers would probably lead to the defeat of the Republican national ticket.

MAINTAINING SILENCE

Nothing Given Out at Beverly Regarding Reported Political Deal.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 19.—If Mr. Taft entered into any combination with the Sherman-Woodruff-Ward - Wadsworth wing of the Republican party in New York to defeat Roosevelt for the temporary chairmanship of the state convention the executive officers will not admit it. "The president himself has had nothing to say and the secretary to the president will add nothing to that silence."

The report, however, is discredited in other quarters. So far as rumors that the president was to get the New York delegation's vote in the 1912 convention, there is no ground to stand upon. Friends of Mr. Taft know that he is not seeking renomination; in fact, they say he is hopeful that he will not have to be a candidate. He has been told furthermore by advisers who stand close to him not to antagonize Colonel Roosevelt. His attitude on state fights has been one of non-intervention, but it is possible that he did tell Lloyd Griscom that he favored Mr. Roosevelt for temporary chairman. If he did so Beverly says it was because he thought the colonel could be nominated. To one of the highest of his political friends he is known to have said, "For God's sake, avoid a fight."

Reflecting the views of the administration, it is generally believed, Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio has given out here a statement in which he says he will never support Speaker Cannon again and that he does not believe Mr. Cannon ever can be re-elected speaker. This is regarded as the actual beginning of the real fight on Mr. Cannon.

There may be further significance in the fact that Representative Longworth is going to Oyster Bay tomorrow to spend several days with Mr. Roosevelt, which is taken here to mean that a close understanding between Beverly and Oyster Bay as to recent events in New York is to be reached.

Gaynor Continually Gaining.
New York, Aug. 19.—It was announced at St. Mary's hospital that if Mayor Gaynor's condition continues to improve as it has during the past three days, by the beginning of next week the physicians will believe their patient well out of danger and on the quick road to recovery. Today he was allowed to sit up in bed, propped by pillows, for a brief period.

CANNON POINTS TO HIS RECORD

In Answer to Nick Longworth's Repudiation.

SAYS IT SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

Upon Second Thought Uncle Joe Gives Out Prepared Statement in Answer to Announcement From Beverly and Says He Has No Quarrel With Congressional Candidates Who Do Not Like Him.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 19.—Speaker Cannon, when first apprised of Nicholas Longworth's repudiation of him, telegraphed from Beverly, remarked:

"Oh, hell, I decline to answer any statement which Mr. Nicholas Longworth may or may not have made until I see it. I do not answer any statements I believe to be fakes that mischievous parties may make. It is enough for me to answer the president of the United States if he has any statement to make touching upon the Republicanism of the speaker of the house of representatives when he makes that statement under his own hand. I will not fight windmills filled by breezes blown from lungs of political or personal enemies or cowards."

Later, when the complete Longworth statement was submitted, Mr. Cannon called L. White Busby, his private secretary, and for the next hour they went over the matter. Mr. Cannon then dictated an interview after another, tearing each up until he secured one which suited him. This he gave out with the added statement that he hoped this would prove satisfactory. The speaker said:

"The legislation enacted and the record made by the party during the eight years I have been speaker speaks for itself. I have contributed what I could toward the enactment of that legislation. I have co-operated with the Republican majority in congress in the effort to put on the statute books the policies of the party, and I have no apology to make for the part I have taken in the legislative councils of the nation."

"In the present campaign, as far as I am concerned, I will do what I can to bring about the election of a Republican house of representatives in the Sixty-first congress, and without a Republican majority in the next house there will be no Republican speaker. In the event of my election as a member of the house I shall attend and abide by the action of the caucus and, from his statement, Mr. Longworth will do the same, as will every Republican member. Therefore I have no quarrel with Mr. Longworth as to who shall be speaker of the next house. There is no room for disagreement touching this matter between Longworth and myself."

"If any Republican candidate for congress feels that his position as candidate on the Republican ticket would be strengthened by pledging that he will not support me in a Republican caucus, I have no objection to his making the pledge. The only test that I would make as to the Republicanism of candidates for congress is, will he, if elected, attend the Republican caucus and abide by the result of the same in the organization of the house and the enactment of legislation in pursuance of Republican policies."

LOSS OF MILLIONS

Sustained by Reason of Cloak Makers' Strike in New York.

New York, Aug. 19.—The following statement as to the cost of the cloak makers' strike has been made on behalf of the manufacturers' association: "The effect of the six weeks during which they have been without work is beginning now to make itself felt among the strikers. The 70,000 men in the trade earned before the strike a weekly wage of about $1,500,000. Their loss now amounts to $9,000,000 in wages, while the loss to the community through the closing of the factories amounts approximately to $150,000,000."

WHEAT SPECIAL HAS AN OBJECT

Purdue University Men Will Give
Lectures and Demonstrations at Every Stop on Trip.

TO BE HERE TUESDAY, AUG. 30.

Train Will Arrive at Three O'clock in Afternoon—Wheat Growers
Invited to Board It.

On Tuesday, August 30, the wheat improvement special train, which is to be run over the Pennsylvania lines in Indiana, will arrive at Rushville at three o'clock in the afternoon. The train will come from the south on the Pennsylvania lines and will go on toward Richmond.

After arriving here, those on the train will demonstrate what is being done in the way of scientific wheat raising. All farmers in this locality and all other persons who are interested in wheat growing are invited to meet the train and hear what is said and see what is done by those who are in charge of the special work.

The train is equipped and run free by the railroad company, while the lecturers, demonstration material and literature are furnished by the Purdue Experimental Station.

The objects of the train are to stimulate interest in wheat growing in Indiana and to disseminate information relative to the selection of varieties, cultural methods, fertilization, control of plant diseases and methods of combating injurious insects.

That this campaign for more and better wheat is needed is readily seen from the study of the present existing conditions.

The average yield of wheat in Indiana is about 13.3 bushels per acre.

The cost of producing more than an acre of wheat in Indiana is more than $12.

The profit on wheat in Indiana is therefore very small.

The experiment station believes that the average yield of wheat of the State should be materially increased, or farmers should stop growing wheat and grow some crop that will return a substantial profit.

Just what the experiment station believes can be done to increase the yield and improve the quality of wheat, will be presented at the lectures given on the train and literature distributed.

The past trains in Indiana have been a success. They have been well attended by the public when the people have known just why the trains were being run and of what the work would consist. It is very important that the people of every community be familiarized with these facts.

The local grain dealers being directly interested in anything that can be done for more and better wheat, are asked to join in securing a large attendance of interested farmers for these lectures. They are also asked to distribute printed literature furnished, and by other means interest the people in this community in the wheat special's work.

Call at L. L. Allen's and see it demonstrated by using Economy fruit jars. 116tf

EMINENT FRIENDS MINISTER IS DEAD

The Rev. Joseph O. Binford, 67 Years Old, Expired at His Home in Knightstown.

HE HAD LED AN ACTIVE LIFE

The Rev. Joseph O. Binford, 67 years old, one of the most prominent members of the Friends church in Indiana, died at his home in Knightstown yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. Mr. Binford was born at Westland, Hancock county, where he lived for more than fifty years before locating in Knightstown. He formerly was pastor of the Knightstown Friends church and in 1899 was elected superintendent of the evangelistic and pastoral work for the Indiana Yearly Meeting, one of the highest offices in the gift of the church. He retired from the superintendency in 1905.

The Rev. Mr. Binford is survived by a widow, four sons and three daughters—Elmer J. and Dr. Benjamin Binford of Greenfield; Horace L. Binford of Knightstown; Arthur Binford of Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. Joe Jay of Greensboro and Misses Anna and Ada Binford of Knightstown. The funeral will be held at the Friends church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

BAND APPEALS FOR MERCHANTS' HELP

Claim That They Should Contract for Playing at Fair After Connersville Organization is Hired.

BUSINESS MEN IN MEETING

Not a great number of business men were out last night for the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association. The matter of industrial improvement came up for its share of the discussion and it was decided that no definite steps would be taken just at present. The main idea expressed that local men be interested in booming Rushville. A committee from the band asked the help of the association in obtaining the contract for playing at the Rush county fair. They claim that the fair board hired a Connersville band only about half as large, while the bid was only twenty-five dollars less than their offer. They think that home talent should be patronized since they believe that their organization is as good, if not better, than the foreign one. Will Bliss went to Connersville this afternoon to see if the contract could not be broken.

WEATHER MAN IS NOW AN INSURGENT

Revised the Temperature Downward and Local People Enjoyed the Invigorating Breezes.

THERMOMETER FELL TO 82

The weather man is not a stand-patter, for he is insurging. He has revised the temperature downward much to the pleasure and delight of Republicans and Democrats alike and today the breezes were enjoyed with all the capacity for enjoying. The temperature has been as high as ninety-eight in the shade in the past few days and local people are of the opinion that it was more like real summer weather than any which has visited this vicinity this summer. Last night a slight change came and people awakened this morning to find the air cool and invigorating rather than hot and heavy. The temperature stood at eighty-two in the shade this afternoon.

"COMPANY" DRAWS
HOOTS AND JEERS

McMullen and Page in Vaudeville Sketch at Star Grand Airdome Are Completely Routed.

ARE DISCHARGED BY MANAGER

It was a hooting, and jerring crowd that greeted McMullen and Page in their one-act playlet, "Carmen, the Sport," at the Star Grand airdome last night. In fact they were so "rotten" that the people in the audience did not hesitate to let the "actor and the actress" know that they disapproved of such stuff. At a thrilling climax, a giggle in the crowd made the whole affair laughable. Manager Carr realized that he was "stung" before the first show was completed but he allowed the "company" to stay the remainder of the evening, and then discharged them. They were here for a three days' engagement. They left last night at eleven o'clock for Indianapolis.

McMullen was touted as a writer and the author of his own playlettes. If he keeps on writing them he may get one at which the cows will smile—some day. The theme of the three-act comedy—comedy's the right word—was horse racing, a very trite one for vaudeville acts. "Bob" was a lawyer with a lucrative practice and not enough money to pay his office rent, while his wife was a rich woman, who would not spend her money. She suffers a great change and begins "to play the ponies." They attempted to give an imitation of a horse race and they failed so miserably that it was comical. The climax to the show came when "Bob" tried to sing a song and strained for a high note. Just then someone let out a screech that would put a hoot owl to shame and pandemonium reigned supreme until the act was finished.
